"Veni, vidi, vici."
Well could "Billy" Sunday leave Jacksonville with these words of the great Caesar upon his lips. He came among us six weeks ago, he saw the weaknesses that held many in bondage and he conquered the hearts of all the space they occupied after the gentle home Father. "Shall We Gather at the River," "The Sparrow Song," "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again," "Nearer My God to Thee," "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." A feature of the song service was a solo, "The Sparrow Song," sung by little Helen Obermeyer. It made a great impression upon the audience.

There was a brief service of song at the tabernacle last night, led by Mr. Butler. The songs sung were: "I Shall Not Be Moved," "Shadows," sung by Mr. Butler and Miss Anderson and also by the choir. "Lead Me Gently Home, Father," "Shall We Gather at the River," "The Sparrow Song," "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again," "Nearer My God to Thee," "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." A feature of the song service was a solo, "The Sparrow Song," sung by little Helen Obermeyer. It made a great impression upon the audience.

Ovation Overcomes Evangelist.
Mr. Sunday spoke a few words expressing his appreciation of the manner in which he had been received in Jacksonville and said in part:

"I have been privileged to witness many wonderful scenes since I have been engaged in evangelistic work and I have frequently said to myself 'Will I ever see the equal of this?' Well, I saw something that will surpass it." I said this to myself when I left the city of Bloomington and again in Decatur, when I departed. I thought I should never see such a demonstration in my behalf. But, friends, for enthusiasm and gratitude to God, Jacksonville has surpassed both of these cities in fine and magnificent as have been their manifestations of good will and kindness. I have never had a community crowd into my heart and find a more secure place than Jacksonville. This outpouring of the people is an evidence of your gratitude to God for the good that has come to this city. Admiral Dewey was honored with a great demonstration when he returned from the Philippines. We have paraded in honor of politicians and politicians when war heroes return from the conquests on the field of battle we march in their honor and it is all fitting and proper. But when I think of this great demonstration here to night in honor of a man that God pulled out of the quagmire of sin twenty-two years ago, I do not feel elated. I feel humbled and I feel that the concluding words were to be will never be known. Mr. Sunday, at this point, was overcome by his emotions and he dropped over the pulpit, the tears came to his eyes and when he found that he could not master his feelings he placed his hands to his face and Mr. Butler mounted the platform and led in song.

Mr. Butler and Miss Anderson sang as a duet, "Oh, Mother When I Think of Thee 'Tis But a Step to Calvary," and Mr. Sunday made his address to the converts.

Address to Converts.
Mr. Sunday said he desired to say a few words to those who had been converted before he preached the sermon of the evening. He said in part:

"Converts, don't get discouraged if you meet with difficulties. Don't waver, keep your faith and hold onto Christ. Read your Bible and give God an opportunity to talk to you. Join the church and don't be a loafer in the church, but a worker. Be faithful in attendance upon the works of Grace. Hear all the preaching that you can and tell some one else of something that you have heard that has helped you. Speak often in meeting, but be brief. Use the condenser every time you get upon your feet. Pray for some one else, don't be selfish in religion. Don't let the devil of fault finding get hold of you. The minute you begin to find fault you back slide. Get a Bible and read it. Remember God rewards faithfulness and not success. Be faithful with your talents, don't bury them. Employ and improve your time. It is the material out of which you serve God. Be a faithful steward and over what God has endowed you with. Be faithful to Christ's commands, whether it is popular or not. Be faithful in your family, in your business and in your church. Be as faithful to the means of grace as to your meals. Be strong and of good courage. Have the courage to say 'No' as loud as to stagger hell. The Lord has great things in store for you. I will pray for you and you will be in my heart and on my prayer list."

Goes to Ottumwa This Morning.
Mr. Sunday announced that he would leave Jacksonville over the Wabash at 7:00 this morning and would arrive in Ottumwa at 5:30 in the afternoon. Mr. Ackley and his son, Willie Sunday, Jr., will accompany him. Mrs. Sunday and the baby will remain for a three weeks' visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wood when they will leave for Indiana. Mrs. Ackley will be a guest of Mrs. McQue for several days.

Mr. Fischer will join Mr. Sunday in Ottumwa to night, going from Chicago and Mr. Butler will join Mr. Pledger in Tallula to day and on Tuesday these two helpers will meet Mr. Sunday in Ottumwa. Fred Siebert will light the fires in the Ottumwa tabernacle this morning and will be on the firing line as of old helping people to Christ.

Words of Appreciation.
Mr. Sunday, in speaking about his leave taking, said: "I hate to leave Jacksonville. I have learned to love these ministers and these dear people. I want to express my appreciation of the work of the newspapers. They have boosted all the way through. If they have not liked anything that I have said they have done me the courtesy not to say so. I have been a great help and I am deeply grateful for their support. I am grateful to Felix Farrel for taking me to these neighboring towns. I expect shall hear the engines in his auto doing business in my sleep. I hate to go but I must. I have stayed as long as I can."

Mistake Corrected.
I am always glad to correct any mistakes that are made during the meetings. When I was out of the city Mrs. Mulhead, from this platform, stated that a girl had come to the Dunlap hotel in a sad plight and had named a professor of Millikin university as the author of her sin. This proved to be a pure hallucination. If any have not liked anything that I have said they have done me the courtesy not to say so. I have been a great help and I am deeply grateful for their support. I am grateful to Felix Farrel for taking me to these neighboring towns. I expect shall hear the engines in his auto doing business in my sleep. I hate to go but I must. I have stayed as long as I can."

The Sermon.
The sermon of the evening followed and it was one of the best that the evangelist has preached. His text was the Twenty-third Psalm, "The Lord Is My Shepherd." It will be found in full on other pages of this issue.

Farewell Prayer.
Mr. Sunday prayed in an earnest manner at the conclusion of his beautiful discourse and remembered all the various interests and classes in the community and commended them to the care of Him whom not having seen we love.

When the invitation was extended eighty-eight came forward and accepted Christ. Mr. Sunday asked Dr. Theodore Kemp, former pastor of Grace M. E. church, now president of Wesleyan university, to offer prayer for the converts and he made a feeling petition to the throne of grace.

Thus closed the greatest revival of religion that Jacksonville and the surrounding country has ever witnessed and a great and good man has gone from among us.
The happy never saw.
And never hear said:
Farewell!
Great Crowd of People.
It seems large but conservative men estimated that about one in three persons who desired admittance at the tabernacle last night were able to gain admittance. Six thousand or more people heard the farewell words of Evangelist Sunday and among the number were scores of farmers and their families. The farmers had early

MISSOURI VOTE GOES TO TAFT

CONCLUDES TO REMAIN IN REPUBLICAN COLUMN.

Indications Are Maryland's Vote Will Be Split—Situation Nationally Unchanged—Deneen's Plurality May Reach 25,000.

New York, Nov. 5.—With the counting of Maryland's vote incomplete and probability of the electoral situation nationally unchanged, Missouri appears to be safely for Taft, to whom the latest returns give a plurality exceeding 2,000. Conceding Missouri to Taft and leaving Maryland to be split between him and Bryan, the figures show 319 Republican electors assured and 156 Democratic.

The latest congressional returns indicate the next congress will be composed of 216 Republicans and 175 Democrats.
Returns for Socialist and Prohibition parties are still far from complete, but indicate the hopes of Socialists have not been realized and that Prohibitionists in certain sections where gains were expected, have been disappointed. Figures for the independence party vote are also insufficient to give an accurate idea what the party accomplished.

Outside of returns, political interest was engaged to day in exchange of messages of congratulation and thanks between Bryan and Taft; a statement by Bryan, in which he sets forth his determination to continue his work for the good of all in the capacity of a private citizen; and an announcement of Sherman that it cost him $2,800 to be elected vice president.

VOTE OF ILLINOIS.

Taft Has Plurality of 162,000 and Deneen 25,000.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Estimates now place the plurality for Deneen, Republican, for governor, at about 25,000. Taft's plurality is 162,000.

St. Louis, Nov. 5.—Returns practically complete from the entire state give Taft a plurality over Bryan in Missouri of 2,228.
Returns compiled at 11 o'clock to night from every county in Missouri give Taft a plurality over Bryan of 2,371. The plurality of Hadley, Rep., for governor, has reached 17,348. Democratic returns estimated at 11,622. Total land originally entered during the year was 19,900,356 acres, a decrease of 1,907,299 compared with 1907. The total area upon which the profit was made was 8,068,044 acres. During the past year there has been recovered from fraudulent entry 383,600 acres, exclusive of many relinquishments.

Nebraska.
Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—A feature in the Nebraska election count to day was the steady decrease in the estimated Bryan plurality. Returns complete from 81 of 90 counties give Bryan 121,000. Taft 118,499.
The remaining counties will probably slightly reduce Bryan's plurality, but cannot wipe it out. Prospects are he has carried the state by 2,000.

Shallenberger, Dem., for governor, will have about 7,000.
Michigan.
Detroit, Mich., Nov. 5.—Governor Warner's plurality stands to night at 5,533. Bryan 1,126. Estimates are made in different quarters with the count in Wayne county practically complete and fairly complete returns from counties out in the state.

Philip Breitmeyer, Republican, elected mayor of Detroit by a plurality of 2,428 over Mayor Thompson, Democrat.
Apparently only two Democrats have been elected to the state legislature, Keppeler for representative for the second Houghton district, and Edwin Farmer from Livingston county.

Minnesota.
St. Paul, Nov. 5.—With complete reports from a majority of the counties and incomplete reports from the rest of the state it is now estimated Governor Johnson's plurality will be nearly 25,000. Other state officials are elected by pluralities approximately the same as Taft's, which is about 1,100,000.
The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

Colorado.
Denver, Nov. 5.—Bryan's plurality in state will be in the neighborhood of 5,500, while Sherman, Dem., for governor, probably 7,500. All three congressmen elected are Democrats.

Kansas.
Topeka, Kan., Nov. 5.—With eleven counties out of 105 to hear from Kansas' plurality for Taft is 34,231. Reports from 82 counties on the gubernatorial ticket give Walter R. Stubbs, Rep., a plurality of 27,400. The Republican majority in the joint session of the legislature is 78.

Hepburn Lost by 600.
Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 5.—Reports late this afternoon indicate that in the eighth congressional district the plurality of Jameson, Democrat, over Hepburn, Republican, is about 600.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 5.—With practically complete returns from every county in Arizona but one Ralph H. Cameron, Republican, is elected to congress, defeating Marcus A. Smith, Democrat incumbent, by 500.

Washington.
Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—Returns from every county in the state place Taft's plurality over Bryan at 46,558. For governor, Cosgrove's plurality over Johnson, Democrat, is figured at 47,168.

Next House Republican.
Chicago, Nov. 5.—The Republican party will, according to present returns from all congressional districts, control the next house by a majority of 41. Figures so far received show the election of 216 Republicans and 175 Democrats, a gain for the latter of nine. Majorities in several districts are reported extremely close, and it is possible that in a few instances the official count may change the figures given above.

Republican Congressman.
Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 5.—By a gain of about 5,500 votes in the fifth congressional district over 1906, the Republicans have elected James M. Morehead by 344 over A. L. Brooks, Democrat.

Republican Claims Election.
O'Neal, Neb., Nov. 5.—Congressman Kinkaid says he has sufficient returns from every precinct in his district to show conclusively that he has been re-elected by a plurality of 1,500 to 2,000. Other reports have given the district to the Democrats.

Indiana.
Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—The Republican committee late to night claims the election of the Republican state ticket, with the exception of governor and attorney general by small pluralities. The Democratic committee claims the entire state ticket is elected.

A CORRECTION.
Washington, Nov. 5.—On Oct. 19 the Press and Dispatch from this city to the effect that in the United States supreme court the International Text Book company was denied a rehearing in its suit against A. P. Piaz, of Topeka, Kan. It now appears that this was an error caused by a mistake of the supreme court clerk, who confused this case with another having a similar name on the court calendar. The case of the International Text Book company against Piaz has not yet been argued.

FORT MASSAC

Governor Deneen and other state officers were present and participated in the ceremonial. The governor delivered the principal address of the day and received the park and the monument on behalf of the state.

LAND OFFICE REPORT.
Washington, Nov. 5.—The annual report for the last fiscal year, Commissioner Dennett of the general land office, says total receipts for the year were $12,715,709, an increase over the previous year of $1,162,531. Total land originally entered during the year was 19,900,356 acres, a decrease of 1,907,299 compared with 1907. The total area upon which the profit was made was 8,068,044 acres. During the past year there has been recovered from fraudulent entry 383,600 acres, exclusive of many relinquishments.

Judge Hough sent them to the Tombs for bail and committed the two bankers to the Tombs prison. Judge Hough said he would hear motions to morrow morning.

ENTOMBED IN MINE.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 5.—An explosion at the mine of Col. W. P. Bond, three miles west of Benton, this afternoon wrecked a shaft and as a result four shot miners are entombed.

DISQUIETING CONTROVERSY

GERMAN PAPERS APPEAL TO PUBLIC FEELING.

Recent Phase of Casablanca Incident Made Question of First Importance—Paris Papers Say Germany Cannot Risk War.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—German newspapers, which hitherto have been almost silent on recent phases of the Casablanca incident, wherein French officials offered violence to German consular officers, have suddenly placed this question in the position of first importance. The controversy is treated as being extremely disquieting and as involving national honor. Public feeling is appealed to by various influential journals in the provinces, as well as by those of Berlin.

Incident Sharpening.
Koenigsberg, Germany, Nov. 5.—The Allgemeine Zeitung, the principal national liberal organ in the eastern provinces, published a semi-official note as follows:

There is good reason to believe that the France German discussion of the Casablanca incident is sharpening and becoming more acute. Negotiations certainly still are proceeding, but German patience must sometime reach its limit. If France in the meantime does not decide to yield to moderate German demands, then Germany will be compelled to speak more plainly. The foreign affairs committee of the federal council, which will meet Saturday, will have to decide on how this is to be done.

CANNOT RISK WAR.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The Temps is of the opinion the present situation in Europe makes it absolutely impossible for Germany to risk an armed conflict. "It would be crowning imprudence," this paper says, "for Prince Von Buelow to risk war, when Austria-Hungary is absorbed in the east. When the Balkan states are ready to close German roads to the eastward and when Russia, aroused by the wave of Slavism, is prepared to seek national revenge, France, morally and from a military point of view, is capable of defending her dignity. Great Britain is indisputably supreme at sea and Italy is less far disposed to sacrifice herself in case of another state."

In conclusion the Temps advises the government to publish the French case to the world.
German Ambassador Radoln has a conference this evening with French minister of Foreign Affairs Poincaré, but no statement was issued with regard to this, and it is not known whether the ambassador admitted the German reply. Nevertheless dispatches from Berlin manifest a less intransigent spirit and are interpreted here as evidencing Germany is showing her position and is ready to accept the French formula.

Settlement at Hand.
Berlin, Nov. 5.—French Ambassador Cambon to night received instructions to propose to Chancellor Von Buelow both governments make an expression of regret at the Casablanca incident and submit the remaining questions at issue to arbitration. The chancellor has replied favorably and it is believed an amicable settlement is close at hand.

EDUCATIONAL COMMITTEE

Heads of Three Methodist Institutions Decide to Ask Members for Small Contribution Toward Betterment of Colleges.

A committee appointed at the last annual Illinois conference of the Illinois conference of the Methodist churches at Carrollton, consisting of the heads of the three Methodist schools in the state, President Kemp of the Illinois Wesleyan at Bloomington, President Eleanor Tobie of the Graduate School for Boys at Quincy, and President J. R. Barker of the Illinois Woman's college of this city, also Rev. J. W. Van Cleave of Champaign, Rev. Mr. Burns of Carlinville, Rev. Mr. Fairchild of Pana, and Rev. J. C. Nale of this city, met at the Woman's college Thursday for the purpose of arranging matters of educational interests of the conference.

It was decided to ask the churches of the conference to raise an amount equal to 20 cents for each member each year which would amount to about $15,000 and divided among the three institutions would give each about $5,000 annually. Methods were then discussed by which the pastors are to meet this appropriation. The three schools are now in a flourishing condition and in this way will be working in harmony with each other and no doubt the conference will give a hearty response.

JUDGE LINDSEY HAS WALK-OVER

Juvenile Court Jurist Gets More Votes Than His Democratic and Republican Opponents Combine.

Denver, Nov. 5.—The sensational feature of the election was the remarkable race made by Judge Ben R. Lindsey of the juvenile court for reelection. Lindsey was side tracked by his party for renomination and at the eleventh hour decided to run independently. The heavy scratching in Denver was partly to get votes in for him and it is estimated he polled more votes than both his opponents on the Democratic and Republican tickets together.

KEYNOTE OF PROSPERITY

SOUNDED BY TAFT IN ADDRESS DELIVERED.

Business Men Who Obey the Law Have Nothing to Fear for Next Four Years—Will Wage War on All Dishonest Methods.

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—Speaking to the Cincinnati Commercial club, of which he has been a member fifteen years, Taft to night brought every member of the club to his feet in an address sounding the keynote of prosperity for the country for the next four years.

Every business man who is obeying the law may go ahead with all the energy in his possession; every entrepreneur who is within the statutes may proceed without fear of interference from the administration, when acting legally; but all interests within the jurisdiction of the federal government may expect rigid enforcement of laws against dishonest methods," was the keynote of what Taft said.

"Business men are to be shown lines of legality," he said, "and are to be directed in keeping within lines of legality, which lines have been emphasized during the past four years. Business men should know they are to conform to laws upon the statute books and that to favor are to be expected for those who break the laws."

This will be so that men who conduct legitimate business may understand the government is back of them, and does not intend to do anything to interfere with their legitimate advancement. It is a question of definite knowledge of what the law is and of their clear understanding which shall make honest progress of our business possible. And that is, in my belief, all that is necessary to make the progress substantial and enduring."

CITY COUNCIL

A Business Like and Uneventful Session.

The city council met in regular session Thursday night with all members present except Ald. Brockton and Moore, Mayor Widmayer in the chair.

Petitions for permission to lay concrete walks on South West street were granted Mr. Spear, A. J. Taylor and George W. Bades.

Petition of South Sandy street business men for abatement of nuisance of steam and gasoline injected into the sewer of that street by the Gas company was referred to the sewer committee and street commissioner with power to act.

Ald. Laergan called attention of failure of street railroad company to make proper repairs to track on South Main street and Ald. McGinnis said the company was woefully delinquent regarding same on East Walnut street and Ald. Goveia said they should be forced to do their duty.

The matter of a sewer from East State street connecting with Clay avenue was brought up and discussed.

Bills were read and all properly approved were ordered paid, but later Ald. Kendrick said he thought business hours and the like should wait for their money until after the first of January, for if they didn't there wouldn't be enough money for next month's pay roll and on motion of Ald. Loneragan the clerk was instructed not to issue such warrants at present.

At this point City Attorney Morrissey entered and was cordially greeted by the members of the council and others present.

Ald. Merrigan brought up the matter of the Rout street subway and said good progress was being made and the mayor agreed and several remarked that the subway must be paved.

Ald. Goveia thought the railroad should pay for certain street lights along their right of way. Ald. Hall said some in the first ward didn't burn. No action.

Ald. Wells complained of Bernard Gause, who had not replaced a piece of pavement on South Main street, where he had put in a sewer connection and had acted independently about it when notified. He thought he more permits should be issued Mr. Gause till he replaced the pavement. Ald. Laergan said there was a law requiring all plumbers to replace pavement thus removed.

The mayor said the plumbers were all outlaws anyhow.

Ald. Merrigan said it was hardly fair to single out a certain plumber and make a monkey of him in that manner. Other persons had sinned in a like manner.

Ald. Loneragan said it was no right to ask obedience to lay.

Ald. Goveia said they should have agreed to his opinion and had instructed in the ordinance that before getting an opening permit the applicant should deposit $25 cash and then they would have something tangible to bring the offenders to time. Street Commissioner White was present and said he had seen Mr. Gause, who said he had been waiting for water to flush the opening.

Ald. McGinnis said the Gas company had been a great offender in the same way as they had laid down long lengths of pipe without leaving the street in proper condition, but had put down the brick in such shape that a depression was left along the whole line.

It was finally moved and carried that opening permits should not be issued to any person who did not leave the pavement in proper condition after tearing it up.

Ald. Wells brought up the matter of a sewer much wanted on South Clay avenue. It would not cost much and should have attention.

Ald. Loneragan said he thought the matter should be put through at once.

The mayor said the matter would be attended to as soon as possible.

Ald. Wells said he guessed the right person had not seen the mayor.

Mayor Widmayer said he had not been in enough to give the matter proper attention. He was going away for ten days and on his return he would see to the matter.

The matter of paving Franklin street was mentioned. An ordinance had been prepared for that work, yet nothing had been done.

Ald. Loneragan said the reason for it was the fact that the committee had been trying to buy of Mr. Andrus more land to widen the street properly. Mr. Andrus had acted very reasonably about it and had shown a willingness to favor improvements but they had not been able to see him yet to get the deal closed.

Ald. Bahan said he would look for Mr. Andrus Saturday when the latter would likely be in the city and try to have the whole matter arranged.

Ald. Hall urged haste so that the work might be done this fall out. Ald. Merrigan wanted the work done but thought it best to get the deed from Mr. Andrus first before proceeding.

Water Superintendent Osborne said there was an ordinance requiring plumbers to pay the water department $15 a year license for doing business. He had collected from two, who paid on condition that the others did the same, and he wanted instructions.

Ald. Bahan said they had to pay the city $5 also and thought the two rather onerous.

Ald. Goveia said he was quite certain that the matter was all fixed properly in the revised ordinances now being printed, and Attorney Morrissey said he would investigate and report the next day.

Water Superintendent Osborne was complimented on his good collections. He was instructed to make a record of the recent test of the river water company.

Ald. Kendrick mentioned the lack of a fire escape at the Woman's college and asked why it had not been erected.

Ald. Loneragan said it was up to the chief of police and fire department chief, as they had instructions to see to it. The fire committee was instructed to push the matter.

The question of fire escapes and exits at the opera house was mentioned and Ald. Bahan said the proprietors had manifested a very honorable disposition to do everything asked in that line.

Street Commissioner White said some outsiders west of the limits had asked to have some dirt in front of Judge Orear's place removed.

It was the sense of the council that the city would be glad to annex them and then accede to their wishes.

The comptroller was instructed to prepare a report of the first of the present administration.

Ald. Kendrick said the Council had been saying some nice things about the county board for erecting a steel bridge east of town, but it was the city that deserved that bouquet and not the commissioners.

Adjourned.

AT THE GRAND TO NIGHT.

"Just a Woman's War," the great melodrama by Sidney W. Pascoe to be produced at the Grand Friday night under the direction of Lincoln J. Carters, tells a strong and affecting story of the troubles of a young wife in defending her husband and home from the wiles of a scheming woman who has become an inmate of her happy home. The time of the play is two years, and the five acts in which it is produced prove an interesting exposition of the dramatist's ability in accomplishing much in little.

Ladies expecting to purchase furs, scarfs or muffs will be pleased with the styles shown by Frank Byrns.

OPERA HOUSE SATURDAY NIGHT.

One of the most important entertainment offerings of the present theatrical season at the Grand Opera house will be Colman & Harris' comedy of plebeian metropolitan production of George M. Cohan's consistently successful music play "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," believed by many to be the most worthy effort the industries young actor-author has yet produced, and in which George M. Cohan will appear as the role of "Kid Burns," the slinky expatriate fighter, while "Les Franches Gordon" will appear as the maid, Mary. The cast and typical Cohanesque chorus is practically the same as during the year's long run in New York, Chicago and Boston.

Phelps & Osborne will wear between 40 and 50 extra savings during the month of December. Persons having had experience will be given preference. Make your applications at once.

AT NICHOLS PARK.

A handsome improvement and the last of the year is being made now at Nichols park in the shape of flower beds laid off artistically with stone curb, making the entrance a fine boulevard also flanked by fine curbstones. This work is on the slope right at the entrance to the park and will add greatly to the appearance of the place and roadways entering the resort.

The custodian is hauling clinders and will make the carriage road dustless as far as possible and it is hoped that during the year enough clinders will be secured to cover the main drives south of the lake. Any person having any to dispose of please notify the superintendent, Mr. Kilner, Ill. phone 425.

That means insurance, but also means a good deal more. You have a thousand things in your home that are not covered by your fire insurance policy. You have many things that money paid you after they were burned up could not replace. A fire insurance policy is all right, but NOT TO BURN is much better. Preventing fires has been the business of the Babcock people until we have developed it into a science. We manufacture everything needed for the purpose and if you will allow us to advise you, we can tell you JUST WHAT would best protect YOUR particular place of business or a home located as yours is. For your convenience we have placed a line of samples at 112 South West street (Rooms of the Johnston Agency) and will be glad to have you call, examine them and talk it over.

FINAL WORDS

suppers and reached the city about 5 o'clock. Never has such a parade been held in the name of religion and memory went back to the days of the crusaders. Men and women of all stations in life marched in honor of Mr. Sunday. It was a veritable outpouring of the people. There was just enough of red fire scattered among the marchers to light the line of march and the people marched from four to six and eight abreast. It required twenty minutes for the parade to pass a given point.

Mr. Sunday Impressed.

It surpassed any demonstration ever made in honor of Mr. Sunday and he was so affected by the love and esteem manifested by the populace that he was unable to express himself at the tabernacle and broke down completely until his sentences were unfinished and his words were lost in tears. There is genuine sorrow on the part of the people at this section as they part with "Bible" Sunday and there is a deep feeling of regret on the part of Mr. Sunday as he leaves Jacksonville for another field.

"Farewell! If ever fondest prayer For others went availed on high, Mine will not all be lost in air, But wait thy name beyond the sky."

In Honor of Evangelist.

As early as 5:30 o'clock Thursday, people could be seen coming toward the tabernacle wearing their bows of white flowers and soon there was gathered at the intersection of Church and West State street a large crowd. The Journal office printed over 1,200 paper badges with the cut and name of Mr. Sunday on them and these were turned over to the parade committee and were distributed as far as they would go among the marchers. These badges were eagerly sought and it is regretted that the supply was not equal to the demand.

People Gather for Parade.

By 6:30 an immense throng had gathered for the parade and the marshals were busy organizing the people into some semblance of a line. They did their part well. When paraders have nothing to carry, neither flags or torches and are undrilled, it is the hardest kind of work to keep them in formation. Formation was not the most creditable feature of the parade last night, but no one over witnessed a more orderly, quiet and good natured crowd, parade a thoroughfare than marching over the streets of Jacksonville last night. The sidewalks were crowded with spectators, while the army of the Lord passed by. The parade moved promptly and was a credit in every way to the man who suggested the idea, Mr. W. C. Wright, and to the people who carried it into the successful execution.

W. C. Wright, Chief Marshal.

W. C. Wright, as chief marshal was supported by Messrs. John G. Reynolds, A. A. Curry, G. N. Lufftrel, A. M. Masters and Frank Huffaker. Then followed the "Joffes" band, playing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and then came Rev. Mr. Sunday, Mrs. Sunday, Willie, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Aekley, Mr. Butler, Miss Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Farrell in the auto of the latter. Then came a carriage with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wood and friends and then came a detachment of the parade. Then appeared two more marshals, Miller Weir and S. O. Shuff, then more paraders and Marshals A. D. Arnold, William Brady and J. W. Woods were in the line, then came more paraders and Marshals W. H. Anderson and John W. Leggett followed.

Line of March.

The parade moved from Church street on State street, east to the Woman's college and then counter-marched to the square and north to East Court street, then east to North East street and north to the east door of the tabernacle, where those who participated in the parade were permitted to enter and secure seats before the crowd that surrounded the main entrance was admitted.

Jam at Tabernacle.

The jam, as people tried to get the front seats was something terrible. Men and women shoved and jostled one another, and many women past the age of three score and ten were carried in by the momentum of the crowd and here and there an usher went to the protection of some mother in Israel and saved her from injury. Women with babies in their arms, less than a year old, got caught in the maelstrom of humanity and how people escaped injury in the mass of people that crowded through the aisles of the tabernacle will ever be a mystery. Fully half of the tabernacle was occupied by converts before the doors to the south entrances of the tabernacle were opened. Then there was another rush.

Jump Over the Seats.

Old men jumped over the back seats and could be seen hopping from seat to seat with the agility of kids in their endeavor of getting the middle seats. Soon there were two streams of people surging in opposite directions in the two middle aisles. The faithful ushers were on hand and at the proper moment the people were stopped coming down the aisle and the vast company began to get settled. One woman fainted in the middle section and had to be carried from the tabernacle, but, barring this incident, there was not an injury or an event of any kind to mar the greatness of the farewell service. Soon the service of song had begun and the final scenes in the Sunday revival meeting were being enacted.

Will Sell Tabernacle.

Dr. W. O. Wait of the building committee, announced that the tabernacle would be sold at auction some day next week. Bidders can find a duplicate copy of the original bill of lumber by calling on Henry Rodgers at the Jacksonville National bank after Saturday. Dr. Wait also announced that there were a large number of articles in the room that had been picked up during the meetings and persons that had lost anything should call any time after 9 o'clock in the morning.

THE TWENTY-THIRD PSALM

Sermon Delivered Thursday Night by Rev. William A. Sunday.

(Copyrighted by Rev. W. A. Sunday.)

My message to night is the 23rd Psalm. 3,000 years have rolled into history since David wrote it. The harp upon which he used to play to charm King Saul in his melancholy moods; the book of the law out of which he read and from which he received his inspiration to do the will of God; the sling with which he used to hurl the stone; the giant wall of Jerusalem; the palace in which he lived; the throne upon which he sat when he governed the people, all have crumbled into dust and they could not possibly be found to day by any possibility of means or research, yet this Psalm is just as inspiring to me as the day he wrote it. To me, nothing is sweeter than the truth of it. It comes to me like the song of many angels. I am sure the infant Jesus used to lisp it as he knelt by his mother's knee, for every Jewish child was taught familiarity with the Psalms and Prophets. Little children have lisped it at their mother's side. Pilgrims, pushing their way over roads hard and rough to travel, have received the inspiration. Prisoners in their cell have forgotten their chains as they say "The Lord is My Shepherd." Martyrs have gone to the stake and become insensible to the stake and become insensible to the pain. Old men and women, young men and maidens, have followed their heads upon his omnipotent, unchangeable words and have slept into glory to meet the Lord, whom not having seen they love.

A friend of mine was preaching in Illinois and was being entertained in the home of a superannuated Baptist minister, and the old man being alone. They came in the morning and awakened my friend and asked if he would come down. He went and said: "Good morning, father Chapin, how are you?" The old man would stare blankly and say: "I never saw you before; who are you?" My friend would tell him and he would say: "Oh, yes, how easily I forget." My friend would return at noon and step to the bedside and ask the same question: "How are you, father Chapin?" and the old man would gaze and say: "How did you get in the house? I never saw you before." My friend would tell him who he was and then he would smile and say "Yes, I do remember you." One morning about 2 o'clock they came to my friend's room and rapped and said: "Hurry up, Mr. Hauser, come down; father Chapin is dying." He hurriedly dressed and rushed to the bedside. The wife and children were standing by. The wife brushed the hair from the old man's forehead, kissed him and said: "Father, do you know me?" The old man stared blankly and uttered never a word. Then his daughter, Ruth came. (She is married now and lives just across the street from where we were holding meetings in Freeport, Ill.) She came and said, "Father, do you know me?" and he looked and said: "Who are you?" "I am Ruth, your daughter, Ruth." The old man said: "No, no God never gave us a child." Their hearts were breaking, and my friend bent low and said: "Father Chapin, do you know Jesus Christ?" and at the mention of His name the old man almost leaped from the bed. He sat upright, looked about and said: "Who said Jesus? Know Him?"

preached His blessed gospel for 45 years, and Lo, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil."

The Favorite Psalm.
Different names have been assigned this portion of God's Word by different commentators. One man called it the creed Psalm. He was asked in a meeting like this to stand up and give his creed, and he repeated the 23rd Psalm. He said: "That is all the creed I know, all I feel I need. My mother taught me to repeat it 25 years ago and I have done so more and more. I don't understand it. I am just now beginning to learn the A. B. C. out of which I can coin a few words which will express, in a limited degree, the blessings that have filled by soul because I have tried to follow the God that inspired the David to write it.

Another man called it the minstrel song, and that's a good name, too. It is singing and winging its way up and down the earth, causing men and women to forget their sorrow, charming away grief; driving away their sinful thoughts and wicked desires. Prisoners in their cells have been inspired and felt their chains snap. I think it has charmed many drunkards from their cups, more libertines from their infamy, more skeptics from their blasphemy, more gamblers from their cards, and as such it is still winging and singing its way and it will not cease to do what it has done until it has fulfilled its earthly mission, then it will wing its flight back again to the throne of God that gave it and fold its wings like a tired dove, to go up and down the earth no more. That's a good name for it. It's song has charmed you, it's melody has charmed me. That's the reason I'm trying to be a Christian and preach to you, I called me from the booze joint, from blaspheming the God that made me, it called me from the gambling hell, from trying to call the "bum" on the races, from living a good-for-nothing, useless life—it has called me from those things to try and be decent and help others.

Another called it the Psalm of the lark. And that's a good name, too. That bird only sings when on wing. (I'm not talking about our common lark.) I'm talking about the English song-bird, and they who have been privileged to hear it, tell me that the higher it mounts, the sweeter grows its melody, until the song seems sweetest after the bird itself has passed from vision.

A man in Detroit received a cablegram telling him that his mother in Liverpool was dying and to hurry home. He took a steamer and hurried to England, reaching there three days before his mother died. They dug a grave in the family lot, and as they were lowering the body into the grave, near the grave stood a bunch of shrubbery and out from it burst a heavy flock of larks and they circled around the open grave and forgot their burden and their grief and stood gazing off into illimitable space, and even after the birds had passed beyond the point of vision they stood gazing off into the skies, bending their ears to catch the faint song.

And I believe there are people to night standing by a grave, where you have buried your manhood and womanhood and the noble thoughts God gave you to be decent, and you have piled the earth on top of them. I pray God there will be a Resurrection. Some of you stand by the graves in which your loved ones sleep, and yet the song will be sweet to you for the glory will gleam on the Resurrection morn' and the rich and the poor will all be equal, like chestnut burrs and you will meet again those that have gone on before.

Now, we are certain that David wrote this Psalm, and we are certain that he wrote 71 others that bear his name.

David Experiences.
I can remember hearing John McNeill, the great Scotch preacher, say that if David hadn't written that Psalm, he thought he must have written it, for it was a perfect counterpart of God's dealings with him, and possibly you have felt the same thing. There may be times in your life when you feel "Well, now, the experiences David had are just like mine, or mine like his," and the Psalms of David were forged on the anvil of experience, and the Psalms of David are nothing more nor less than his experience in trying to serve and do the will of God. So I am sure that David wrote that Psalm. Possibly he used to sing it. David was a U. P. and they used to sing Psalms in the temples and possibly David used to sing this Psalm, for the 23rd, the 24th, the 16th, many of them were written and sung as songs in the temples. Possibly David used to sing this for old King Saul when he had the gout, or the appendicitis, or the pericarditis, and when he felt grouchy, and I have often tried to imagine hearing David sing it, and if he did sing it as a song, how he must have placed emphasis upon the personal pronouns.

The Lord is MY Shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh ME to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth ME beside the still waters. God had done all that for him and that song was his experience. I read the other day of a French Marquis, who was raised to his grand and exalted estate from very humble surroundings. He himself had been a shepherd, and as Kipling says: "Least we forget," he had in the palace what was known as the "Shepherd's Room," and in the room he had reproduced hills, valleys, trees, rocks, water courses, paths, just as he knew them when a lad herding his sheep, and he used to go into that room every day and sit for an hour or two and gaze upon the reproduction of the scenes of his youth, lest he might become "puffed up" and forget.

It is a great thing, sir, I don't care who you are. Sit down and think of the benefits that have accrued to you by and through Christianity. You yourself may be an old cuss, an old booze fighter, an old libertine, and yet there are benedictions and blessings that surround you due to religion, not the religion you have lived, but because you lived in a community where are religious influences. And there is not a man and woman, who is decent, that would live in Jacksonville or any other town if there were no churches or Christian influences. What would it amount to? You take the churches away and drive the Christian people out of Jacksonville and your real estate would not be worth 10 cents on the dollar inside of six months. You bleary-eyed, bloated-face, sneering, scoffing, old skeptics that rail and hiss at God, in about six months or a year I would find you at the depot waiting to take the train, and I would ask you: "Where are you going?" "I'm going to hunt up those Christians that believe in that unknown God I had no use for." "Why?" My real estate is only worth 10 cents on the dollar and my property is rotting. I wish they would come back and then I could rent my property.

TWENTY-THIRD PSALM

The Lord Is My Shepherd.

Christianity is the greatest asset you ever looked at when it comes to a community. Sit down and take a prospective view of life. Think what a good-for-nothing, Godless, degenerate reprobate you would be if you weren't for Christianity. Then don't sneer and scoff at God. Sit down and review it a little bit.

The position of the 23rd Psalm is significant. It follows the 22nd. It follows the Psalm of the cross. You have to reach the point where you see Jesus crucified on the cross for your sins, accept Him as your Savior, before you can ever say "The Lord is my Shepherd." God is the Shepherd of none but those that are Christians.

Then it is followed by the 24th Psalm. That has been called the Psalm of the future. "Lift up your heads, O ye gates, even lift them up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of Glory shall come in." So, you see this one I am talking about is for you to night. I want you to have the experience, and the only way to get that is to give your heart to God and be a Christian and then you can say "The Lord is my Shepherd."

"The Lord is my Shepherd." The word "Lord" is printed in Italics. It means Jehovah. So great did the Jews respect and adore God that the name "Jehovah" was pronounced only once a year and that on the great day of atonement and then only by the high priest, after he had gone into the Holy of Holies, screened and shielded by the blood of the sacrifice. If the Jews saw a piece of parchment on the street, they never would step on it without first stooping down and looking on the under side, lest the name "Jehovah" would be written there, and by stepping on that they would show disrespect for God, so marvelously did they reverence God.

My, how we have changed in our day. To listen to the conversation of the average group of men on the street to day you would think God was a demon and a wretch and that he never had a thought of love toward people, to listen to them drag His name in their filthy conversation as they stand and spew and vomit out their satanic utterances. I need the other day of a colporteur who was traveling through Switzerland and found a boy hearing sheep. The boy was willing to learn, but was somewhat dull of apprehension. He gave him a Bible, marked this portion of the Word and said: "Learn it by heart. When I come again if you know the Psalm I'll give you a present." About eight months afterwards he went into that neighborhood. Remembering his promise, he went to the door and rang the bell, and the woman who responded was dressed in black and her face looked sorrowful. He asked for the boy. She brushed back the tears and said: "He died five months ago, and he told me that if ever you would come to tell you that he had his Psalm before he went. And when his mind began to fail, when he didn't know his father or his mother, he started to repeat that Psalm. I died with him. He made his finger stand for word, and he started to say "The Lord is my Shepherd" and that's as far as he got. His mind failed, and he grabbed his finger and died holding on to that."

What a grand life to live, when you come to bid good-bye to this old world, to be able to look up and say "The Lord is my Shepherd." That will dispel the gloom that will gather around your bed, but by you are here to night with Jesus Christ, what I have to say will have no effect, only I hope it will inspire within your heart a desire to know the Christ I am trying to talk about, until you are willing to submit to him.

The word "Shepherd" is interesting, but the work far more so. From what high eminence he overlooks his flock. Jesus, at the right hand of His Father, overlooks and hears. He is always ready to stand between us and danger.

I remember when I was a little boy in Iowa, an old Scotchman named Father Duff had hundreds of sheep. He would drive them into the valley and then sit on the hill sides, strike two pieces of flint together and light his pipe and sit there and smoke and blink and doze in the sun. He would pick up his binoculars and sweep the valley and see where the sheep were, and when they had wandered to a place beyond safety he would speak to the collie dog and say "Sit, they are too far away, bring them back, will you?" and she would hurry and take a circuitous route and turn them all into the foot hills. And he would smoke and blink and doze and feed, and he would pick up the field glass, and he would sweep the valley again and say to the dog: "Sit, get them away from that place, will you?" and she would hurry away and turn them into the foot hills. From that eminence he overlooked the sheep. And Jesus Christ, from the right hand of His Father, sees you going into every joint every night and blowing your money. That's the reason when hard time comes you haven't anything in the bank. Jesus Christ saw you go into the house of her whose door swings into hell. He saw you laying your snares and pitfalls to rob that girl of her honor. He saw you wandering away. You got angrier up in society. You got away after the goddess cards and the gang in Jacksonville that does nothing but fool their time away with that fol-de-rol. And Jesus Christ sent this great tabernacle meeting as a shepherd dog to turn the minds of the people in the old Shenango valley back to the cross. You have drifted away from God. He saw you wander away and God sent it. Sometimes God sends a heart. Sometimes He sends a white one. Sometimes the black plumes nod from the top. You are too tangled up in business; you are too crazy after society. God wants to do something to try and get you and He is watching us from the right hand of God the Father.

Many a time I have seen old Father Duff come home at night carrying a lamb under each arm. I never saw him carrying an old sheep, but the old sheep always followed after, bleating. God sometimes takes your lambs so that you fathers and mothers can follow Him. That is the only way he can get you into Heaven and keep you out of Hell. He does it many a time.

I have seen Father Duff come home many a time with a lamb under each arm, but never with a sheep. They could care for themselves.

The Imbecile said: "Mr. Sunday, I would like to be a Christian, but I am so weak. I'm afraid I'll slip and fall." God will strengthen you in your weakness if you will trust in Him. It's the fellow that get "cheesy" and says "When I'm a Christian I'll show you." Yes, you old lobster, but why don't you show us now. Some of you fellows have said "When I'll" until you are gray-headed. Some of you have said "When I'll" until you have said "When I'll" until you hobble in here stiff of joint. "When I'll." "When I'll" and you will "When I'll" until the undertaker puts you in the coffin.

A friend of mine was preaching in a town one time and after he got through a man came up and said: "Say, I would like to have you go up to my house to dinner." He said: "You are the first stranger I have seen beneath my roof in seventeen years, not that wife and I are proud and don't care to have friends, but we have an imbecile son and I never thought it would be pleasant for strangers. Of course, we don't care, because he is our son, and for that reason we have foregone pleasure, but something you said in your sermon led me to conclude you would not mind it."

My friend said: "I would be delighted," and he went, and when the meal was announced they led the boy in. He was probably 18 or 20 years old, but as helpless as a child. They led him in, put a bib around his neck, cut his food. He didn't have sense enough even to feed himself.

After the meal they stepped into the parlor and my friend said to the father: "Was your child born thus, is it hereditary or was it the result of affliction?"

The result of affliction. The child was as bright as any that ever you saw until he was past three years of age, and he was afflicted with a malady which left him in this comatose state. "When he was ill mother and I despaired that he would ever live." My friend said: "Well, it seems to me that it would have been a blessing if God had taken him when he was young and died." The old father looked at my friend and his ears rolled down, he walked over and put a hand on either shoulder and said: "Say, I wish you hadn't said that, you hurt me. I know he's an imbecile. I know that. I don't know what I would do if I didn't have to get up four or five times a night to care for his wants and see if I could help him. In his helplessness he appeals to our strength, and sin, mother and I said just yesterday that if God would let his mind come back and stay long enough for him to put his arms around his mother and kiss her and say: "Mother, I'm sorry I've caused you so much trouble; I thank you for your help." If he would just kiss me and say: "Father, you've been so kind to me, I want to thank you." If God would let him mind come and stay just long enough to do that, I would feel that I had paid a million times over for all the money spent and the sleepless nights by his bedside, sir."

Say, God says, if you only had manhood enough and womanhood enough to walk down the aisle and accept Him, his sons Jesus Christ says "I would feel myself repaid onehundred and fold for every thorn in the brow, for every nail in my hand, for every stone they buried against me, for every bath they spilled and vomited out, for all their blasphemy." God has been waiting for some of you men and women to be decent enough to acknowledge that he has been a help to you. God pity you I wonder at. God's mercy. I wonder he does not damn some of you in hell before morning. If you would just make some acknowledgement that you appreciate what I am trying to do for you instead of hearing the sermons every night and passing them up and going out.

He Satisfies. "He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters."

A hungry sheep, dog or horse will not lie down. The fact that they do lie down is an evidence and an indication of their satisfaction. I will tell you what a blessing it is. I have tried everything. I have trod this earth as much as any man and there's nothing compared to doing the will of God and doing his commandments. I am glad to night that I am in His hands for safety. I am glad I am sitting at His feet to be taught. I am glad I am by His side for fellowship.

Did you ever read any of the works of Helen Hunt Jackson? One day she was walking down the streets of Colorado Springs. It was a cold day in the fall and there were flurries of snow and gusts of rain. She had on heavy under garments, then her heavy outer dress and over that a gossamer, and she carried an umbrella, and even with all that clothing she felt herself chilled. She went down the street, turned the corner, and there in front of a window where there was a millinery display of ribbons, of all hues and colors, stood a little girl about 7 or 8 years of age. Over her ears was a fascinator, through the holes in which protruded her ears. Her clothing was a ragged, calico dress that swished around her bare legs. On her arm hung a basket and in that basket were broken pieces of pie, cake, doughnuts, and bread, evidences that she had been the recipient of the hand of charity as some restaurant. The little one stood at the window, heedless of the passerby, saying unconsciously to her self: "I choose that color, and I choose that color, and I choose that color, and I choose that color." She turned and saw Miss Jackson and shied bashfully away. And Miss Jackson said to her: "O honey, don't you go. If you like to look at the pretty things, stay. I have dropped a silver piece in the cold hand of the little shivering outcast and then went on her way. She said she couldn't get the picture out of her mind. She couldn't have gone over three blocks until she said to herself: "I'm going back and see if that little girl is there." She said: "I took a circuitous route and I went and peeked around the corner and there, standing in the window to her ankles, where there was an indentation in the sidewalk and the water had run in, stood the little girl. She had approached closely to the window and every time she said it she hit the window with her finger. "I choose that color, and I choose that color, and I choose that color, and I choose that color." And I'll take that book and you can take Boh Ingersoll if you want to.

Verily I say unto you, he that believeth my words hath ever lasting life." You can take Spencer, and Darwin, and Huxley, and Voltaire if you want to. I'll take the Lord. The Lord is my Shepherd.

He Restored the Soul.

"He restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake." Not for my wife, but for His name's sake.

How can we need restoration. Since I have been in Jacksonville I have seen people with baskets, digging up dandelions. Why? Spring time has come; we get all run down physically and we need a physical tonic. I have something to recommend. Payne's Celery Compound, Green's Nervura, or Hood's Sarsaparilla or any other patent medicine or doctor's prescription you ever went by against First class rheumatism, the first nine verses. That's the best spring tonic you ever went against. Try it. That and the 23rd Psalm. If you want something that is great, try them. We get run down physically, don't we? Sure. I think we get run down spiritually and morally? Well, instead of snapping and railing and finding fault and spending your time in criticizing, get down on your knees and show you that you need just what he is giving you. That's the reason you grow.

What are some of the signs of it? Unconfessed sins. You haven't made the wrongs in your life right. You are run down in your life.

Pardon a little illustration from home. When Helen was a little girl (she is big now, 18) one day she was playing at home with the boys and girls and she did something and I said, "Helen, don't do that, please." After a while she again did the thing I told her not to do and I said, "Helen, I ask you not to do that." She said: "Yes." I said, "Don't do it; I don't want you to do it." She did it again. I said, "If you do it again, I'll punish you; do you do it again?" After while her grandmother came and said that Helen had done the thing I told her not to do. I called her in and I said, "Helen, come here! Didn't I ask you not to do that again?" She said, "Papa, I didn't do it since you told me the last time not to do it." I said, "Your grandma said you did." I had never known Helen to lie to me. She said that Papa, she is mis- taken. I didn't do it." I said, "She said you did." "I didn't do it." I punished her. She is naturally tender hearted, but she grit her teeth, clenched her fists and never shed a tear. She went into the other room and I heard her playing hide-and-seek, and tag, and jacks, and drop the handkerchief, and London bridge is falling down. Pretty soon her grandmother said, "Helen did do what you told her not to do. I have just found it out and I have come to tell you." And then the Lord seemed to say to me, "Did I do wrong when you punished Helen? Did I ask her to forgive you?" I said, "O Lord, she has forgotten all about that." Then something seemed to say to me, "Supposing she hasn't forgotten? Supposing she did not do what you asked her not to do and yet you punished her. What will you do then?" I thought a moment and then I said, "O Helen, come here." She came in and I said, "If you found out, Helen, that you were right and grandma was wrong, and I was wrong when I punished you, Helen, I feel awfully sorry; forgive me, will you?" Her little arms went around my neck like that and her tears fell like rivers of water and I've never lost my influence over Sis from that day to this. She thinks her dad's a great fellow.

Confess it. Don't neglect your Bible. We have so many sins and spiritual restlessness, impatience with those who are trying to lead you to do what is right; lack of interest to take your stand for God; impatience with those you know are right and those you know are wrong; and living the Truth. God wants to set us free from all of those things and help us.

"Yea tho I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I shall fear no evil; for thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me." Two applications. But the message says he "walks" through, he doesn't stop or run. Jesus said, "Lo, I will be with you always, even unto the end of the world." You can go with your loved ones to the coffin, but that is as far as you can go. You will have to bid them good-bye then; but He says, "Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world." So, He will go with you there, and then when your loved ones bid you good-bye He will keep on with you and He will walk with you through the valley of the shadow of death. He will lead you.

Illustration From Home.

Pardon another illustration from home.

We live in Chicago in a two story and a half basement house. Mrs. Sunday's grandmother lived with us for 14 years and she had the upper floor. She died three years ago and since then we have had the entire house. In the half basement are the dining room and kitchen. On the first floor are the front and back parlor and the library and hall, and the sleeping rooms and bath rooms on the third floor.

One day I wanted George to go down into the dining room and get something for me. It was dark and I said, "Son, will you go down to the dining room and get something for me (I've forgotten now what it was), and he looked at me and said, "Did you leave the gas burning when you came up?" "No, I turned it out." He said, "It's dark, Pa." "I know it." "I don't want to go down." I said, "Shucks, nothing will hurt you, George." He said, "I know it, Pa, but I don't want to go down." I said, "Gon on. You are a big boy 9 years old. Don't be afraid of the dark." He said, "Pa, was you ever in the dark things, say, when you were a boy?" (Well, I should say I was. My, but I could do business on the run.) "Well," he said, "Pa, that's just the way little boys feel now." He said, "I don't want to go down, that there's something down there that's going to jump out and grab me. I know there ain't, but I feel like it." I said, "All right, son, come with me; I'll go with you." I took him by the hand and went with him to what I wanted him to get, came back upstairs, and said, "Son, were you afraid?" "No, Pa." I said, "Why not?" He said, "Because you were with me." I said, "That's what the Bible says, 'Yea tho I walk through the valley of the Shadow of Death I will fear no evil, for thou art with me.' and Jesus will be with us just like I was with him. That is what he wants to do with you. You have been passing him up. He is the best friend on earth to you if you will give him a chance to help you, as sure as you live and breathe. Don't pass him up. See what life will do for you if you will let him.

God's Banquet.

"Thou preparest a table before me." Some of those old lobsters call me a "grafter." When I was playing back and drew $500 a month, went up and drew $250 every two weeks—nobody called me a grafter. When I was working for the devil I was all right, but since I've become decent I have to be called a grafter. When I quit playing ball, instead of becoming a minister I had been a toot for the races, or run a booze joint and was a God forsaken, whiskey soaked chump, I might have been a "good fellow" with a lot of miserable curs never shed a tear. The Lord has prepared a table before me in the presence of that bunch. The devil used to feed me on corn and cabbage, but God gives me porter house beef steak. You can take your free lunch counter and your standard booze if you want it, but I don't, or your New Castle sloop. No, sir, I don't want it. Feasting is the result of a surrendered life. The blessings are the result of doing what God tells you to do. That's where they come from. By serving God and keeping His commandments.

On the Emperor's had a queer custom. When the emperors went away on a military expedition and brought back to Rome the captives or prisoners of war, they had a huge amphitheater that held hundreds and thousands, and they were pillars and bull rings, and they used to chain the slaves and the prisoners of war in there and keep them for days, giving them neither food nor drink, and on an appointed day they used to set that place with great banquet tables. They would search the markets of the world to get the most delicate viands, and they would laden the tables with the finest jewels that ever came out of the grove beneath their load. Then there would enter the emperor, followed by the senators and his generals and the great men and women of the empire and they would sit and feast and drink and laugh and mock at their efforts, and when the banquet was through, then the eagles of Rome would be turned loose and the banquet hall would be trampled and trampled and blood instead of wine would flow. That was a barbarous custom, yes, but they would sit and feast in the presence of their enemies. God will put a blessing on you that men will look on you with envy when they see how God blesses the man that lives for Him and does His will. God will do wonderful things if you will give Him a chance. He will prepare a table before you in the presence of your enemies.

Now notice! "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever." The presence of the Redeemed.

Some people say heaven is a state and not a place. I don't believe it. I believe heaven is just as much a place as is this tabernacle. Just as much a place as that factory is a place. What did Jesus say in the 14th chapter of John? "I go to prepare a 'state' for you?" No. "I go to prepare a PLACE for you." Then let it alone. Don't try to twist some of your old theological nonsense into it. Heaven is a place. What is the doctrine about the resurrection? There has to be a place for the heavenly body. Are only the spirits raised? No, mind. When Jesus Christ went to Bethany he went bodily. He went into heaven, into the clouds bodily, he arose bodily, he returned bodily. I will bet every dollar I have that Jesus Christ will walk this old earth again.

Now listen. Absolutely certain. "I go to prepare a place for you. In my father's house are many mansions. If it were not so I would have told you."

They say that when Lafayette returned to this country as the guest of our nation, in 1824, the ships went out into the harbor to meet him and when they got out on the water of war thundered his welcome. Lafayette never shed a tear. The ship came into the harbor, tied at her dock, Lafayette walked the gang plank and the earth trembled with the shouts of the grateful people, but Lafayette never shed a tear. He entered a carriage, was driven down the streets of New York, which had been placed with palms and flowers, mementoes of affection, and never shed a tear. He passed beneath the forming, not making resolutions, but giving yourself up to Christ and letting Him lead you, and He will do it if you only trust Him.

Listen! The gates shall not be shut until day for fear of darkness. Every time a soul enters eternity. Every time the sun rises and sets the gates are swinging shut, until there may come a time when the sun will come up for the last time. There will come a time when the door will be shut, and I believe that through this meeting God is holding the door open for some of you men and women to enter, and if you don't yield, I believe that so far as your opportunities are concerned it will shut forever in your face. The door is still open. Every time the watch ticks a soul speeds on to eternity.

I have sometimes thought and said that when I die I would like to go as did Cruden. One of his favorite methods was to go to his study and look out his books of reference, search them, and when he grew tired he would lie down with his head on the open Bible. The rule was not to disturb him in that position. One day they looked in to call him for luncheon and they saw him with his head lying in the open Bible and they left him. An hour passed and they took the book and he was still in that attitude. Two hours passed and then three. He had never been known to stay over an hour and a half. At the end of four hours they went back and he was still in the same position, resting in the open Bible. They tipped their way in, spoke to him, but got no response. They leaned over and touched his cheeks and they were cold. They had been away for hours. I wish I could go like that. I will go with my head bowed on my knees. If I die in the field, where I can't get God's word, you can get it for me. I will have a notice in the paper or if you have occasion to call me up over the phone, that will be "central" for me. That will be my death.

Livingstone's Death. I have sometimes thought I would like to go as did David Livingstone in Africa, on his knees, pleading with the people of the dark and benighted heathen. Tired, worn, his faithful servants had carried him in his wicker chair, and they came to a bamboo bungalow, where they carried him to rest. They placed him on the bed and he died to be left alone. He said on his knees, buried his face in his hands. In an hour or so they looked in and saw him in that attitude of prayer. They went away and he said: "Sh! the white man prays. How long he prays, but he prays." They went back later, entered, and he was dead. They carried him out, laid him on the floor, and in their crude way they opened his abdomen, took out his vital organs, beneath the trees he loved they buried them, and in the way they swayed his body, sewed it up in cloth, fastened it to a pole, and with that on their shoulders for twelve months they waded through the swamps, swam rivers and creeks, fought the birds of prey by day and the beasts of prey by night. At last they reached the seashore, got into communication with England and she sent a cruiser which brought his body home. He might sleep in Westminster Abbey, waiting for the trumpet of Gabriel to sound. I have often thought I would like to go pleading with somebody and helping them to see the light and get out of the clutches of sin and the devil. Yes, God tells me of the blessing. "Goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

"I See a Light." A friend of mine told me that he was down in Boston and while there visiting in a home God's time had come for an old pilot who was a harbor pilot. An ocean pilot takes a ship out of the harbor, neither do they ever bring a ship in. A harbor pilot goes miles out at sea and meets the incoming vessels and brings them to the harbor. When they are ready to sail the harbor pilots take the ships outside of the harbor, then the ocean pilot takes them and when they meet the harbor pilots on the other side they take them back to the harbor. Should an ocean pilot attempt to bring a ship in or take it out of the harbor and strike a rock and be wrecked, they would receive no insurance. A harbor pilot's commission is different from an ocean pilot's. For 60 years this man had had a harbor pilot's commission, bringing the ships into the harbor at Boston and taking them out, and his time to die had arrived. They stood around his bedside watching the battle. He struggled, raised himself, and sitting upright he gazed off and then reached out his hand and said: "I see a light," and they said to him: "Is it the minaret light you see?" "No, that's first red, then white. This is white all the time," and he fell back. They saw him struggle, he sat up, right, stretched out his arms and said: "I see a light." They said to him: "Is it the highland light you see?" "No, that's first red and then black. This is all white all the time. Look! Look!" They said: "We see nothing," and he fell back and they thought he had gone. He came back as if from the skies, struggled, with the light he sat upright and said: "I see a light." They said to him: "Is it the Boston light you see?" (The last light as you go out of the harbor) "No, that's all red all the time. This is all white all the time. I see it," and he fell back. They thought sure he had gone, but he came back again as if from the skies, struggled, sat upright, reaching out his hands, his face lighted up like a halo of glory and he cried: "I see a light and it's the light of glory. Let the anchor drop."

And he anchored his soul in the haven of rest. To sail the wild seas no more; The tempests and the sweep o'er the wild stormy deep. But in Jesus he's safe ever more. "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Then come in to night.

WESLEYAN WILL BE THE OPPONENT

Illinois Eleven Will Line Up This Afternoon Against Bloomington Squad—Royal Battle Expected.

The Illinois college football team will line up against the strong Wesleyan team this afternoon on the college campus and a battle royal is certain. The two schools have been rivals in athletics for years and this spirit of rivalry between the two schools will have its climax in today's game. Wesleyan took the locals into camp last year at Bloomington by a small score and intend to repeat the performance this year in Jacksonville.

The students on the hill would rather see their team triumph over Wesleyan than any other school, so they have been looking forward to today's contest with great apprehension. They feel that they have a good team and are backing it to a man.

Those who saw the college game with Williams and Vashit were given a good exhibition of modern football. The open plays and forward passes make it a spectators' game and of intense interest even to those who do not understand the game. Onlookers can see the ball move in the new plays, and as a local fan state, they can tell what is going on.

Wesleyan has a very strong team this year and are strict adherents to the new style. It has been by their trick plays and long passes that they have been able to carry the ball so well against their opponents. One of their triple passes which has been so successful, is greatly feared by the locals.

Capt. Wright stated at the conclusion of yesterday afternoon's practice that the team was in good condition and would go into the game to win even if the odds favor Wesleyan. Capt. Thompson of the Wesleyan team is a Jacksonville boy and a large delegation of local fans will be on hand to watch his playing.

The game will be called promptly at 2:30 in order to allow the visitors to catch an early train.

OTHER WOMEN CAN'T TELL

That Is Why One Face Wash Is Becoming so Popular.

Paint and powder are not now so much used as aids to the complexion as they were a few years ago, says an exchange. One reason given for the falling off in the use of these cosmetics is that women themselves often criticize the use of powder in quantities that attract notice, and few, indeed, are the women who can apply powder or rouge so that seems to be an almost universal return to the use of harmless home preparations. A recipe highly recommended and often used is the following: Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Eppatone, 4 ounces. Every druggist has these ingredients for sale. Take them home and put the Eppatone in a plat of hot water (not boiling) and after dissolved strain and let cool, then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits. This face wash can be applied daily and it leaves the complexion soft, white, smooth and velvety. There is nothing to rub off or show. Put this recipe in your scrap book and make a note also that Eppatone prevents chaps and roughness.
